FORTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

[Vinton Leader.]

Forty years on the 28th. of November, 1867, William Henry Devore and Rachel Ellen Harkins were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Major and Mrs. David T. Harkins, at Danville, Moigs Co., the grooms father, Rev. Solomon Devore of

It was therefore fitting that this worthy couple should emphasize this momentous event in their lives by celebrating their ruby wedding on Wednesday evening of last week.

The event however, was a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Devore, planned and executed by their daughter, Mrs. J. B. Dollison of Logan, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Hartley Devore of Vinton. In order that the necessary arrangements could be made Mr. and Mrs. Devore were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Vollborn to spend the day and as pre-arranged were induced to remain until after supper.

Their surprise upon returning home about 7 o'clock in the evening to find their home filled with friends and relatives can better be imagined than described. They were both, however, equal to the occasion and after recovering from their shock entered into the spirit of the evening and enjoyed it to the fullest extent.

Mr. Devore is a son of Solomon and Margaret Devore, and was born at Beverly, Washington Co. Ohio, May 25, 1847, being now in his 60th year. When a small boy he moved with his parents to Meigs Co., where he met and wooed Miss Rachel Harkins for his bride.

After their marriage they went to housekeeping at Danville, where they lived a few years and then moved to Monroe Co., afterwards moving to Morgan county where they lived until 14 years ago when they purchased the elegant home of D. O. Welker and moved to Vinton, where they have since resided.

Mrs. Devore's birthplace was in Chester Co. Pa., where she first saw the light Sept. 8, 1846. She was the only daughter of David T. and Sidney Harkins. She moved with her parents to Danville when quite small and continued to live there until her marriage to Mr. Devore. She is now in her 61st year and is a well preserved lady.

About 32 years ago Mr. Devore entered the ministry and has since been expounding the doctrines of the Church of Christ. He is a very able minister and has been very successful in his work.

Mr. and Mrs. Devore's union was blessed with two children, Mrs. J. B. Dollison of Logan, and Hartley Devore of Vinton, both of whom were present to rejoice with their parents on this anniversary occasion.

Mr. Devore has one brother living in the state of Washington, and five sisters, one in Minnesota, two in West Virginia and one in Washington, none of whom were permitted to be present on this occasion.

Mrs. Devore has four brothers living, namely: John Harkins of Oklahoma, Milin of California, Wayne of Woodfield, O., and Wm. N. of Vinton, the last named being the only one present on this occasion.

The Devore home was never more beautiful than on this occasion. Red hearts pinned to the lace curtains were prominent in every room, and other decorations were in keeping with the spirit of the day, red of course being the prevailing feature of the color scheme.

A number of beautiful and useful presents were bestowed, among which was a handsome leather rocker, a memento from a number of friends. It was presented by Eld. W. N. Harkins, who spoke in behalf of the friends. In the presentation speech he spoke of the sorrows and joys that had come to them in the forty years of wedded life. "Sorrows that had touched them lightly and joys that had kept them young," and in behalf of the friends wished them a happy journey the rest of the way. This address was feelingly responded to by Mr. Devore. He said, to live in the hearts and estimation of his friends meant more to him than silver and gold. The beautiful rocker would be a daily reminder of their unflinching love, of which they would always endeavor to prove themselves worthy. The guests were then invited to the dining room, where an elegant lunch was served. In the refreshments the color scheme of red, was again in evidence. Seated at the bride's table, which was a dream of beauty, were Eld. and Mrs. Devore, the bride and groom of 40 years ago, Col. and Mrs. W. F. Butler, and Eld. and Mrs. W. N. Harkins, and as favors each received a red carnation. Souvenirs of red ribbon bows were issued to each guest by Misses Beatrice Matthews and Hazel Hartsook. Everything was in charming taste and much praise is due those who had charge of the culinary department.

After singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" the guests departed for their respective homes, after wishing the happy couple a pleasant journey through life.

Altogether it was a most delightful occasion, not only for the bride and groom of 40 years, but to everyone present. Vinton has no worthier couple than Eld. and Mrs. Devore. They command and enjoy the esteem of all its people. From every side came best wishes for their continued happiness and prosperity. With this multitude the LEADER joins. May their last years be their happiest and best, and may they be safely anchored in the blissful haven beyond.

Out of town guests were Mrs. J. T. Matthews, of Columbus, O., Mrs. M. H. Cherrington, Mrs. J. L. Martin, Miss Gladys Lehman, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dollison, and daughter Edna, of Logan, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Harkins and daughter Grace, of Danville.

What Advertising Did.

J. W. Roach, a farmer living near Clyde, Kan., tested the efficacy of advertising recently. He was about to hold a public auction and planned an advertising campaign. For several weeks he announced his dates in the local papers and the last week came out with a half-page advertisement, ordering 500 extra copies of the paper for distribution. He employed four auctioneers and advertised the fact. He told in an interesting way, through his advertising, that he would have a big sale--and plenty to eat. The sale was held adjoining Clyde and the crowd that attended was estimated at 3,000. The Clyde merchants did a big business as a result. Before the event Mr. Roach estimated the amount of the sale at $2,000, but it footed up $4,500. His printing bill was $38, and he attributes the remarkable success of the sale to a judicious use of printer's ink. He said to a representative of the Telescope: "Printer's ink made me at least $1,500 on that sale; I got the people there and they bought whether they needed the goods or not."

A Christmas Tragedy.

The firelight flickers soft and low Where hangs the sprig of mistletoe. And linger here a man and maid Of microbes not a whit afraid! Past twelve. The clock has struck. No doubt Its grievance that 'tis all worn out With seconding a loving pair Who grant no respite, I declare. The mistletoe swings to and fro And wishes that the youth would go--The youth who starts, but over turns And for "another, darling," yearns! And Cupid yawns, but pricks his ears As, ah, a stealthy tread he hears! It's down the stairs--it's in the hall--A rush--a cry--a sudden fall! A door swift flung, and fainter then A clatter on the steps again. For weal or woe and to and fro There swings in glee the mistletoe. --Edwin L. Sabia in Bohemian For December.

THE NEWS IN A NUT SHELL

President Roosevelt has issued a statement in which he recites the utterance made by him on the night of his election, in which he declared that he would not seek or accept another term, and he has added to it the simple announcement that he has not changed his opinion and will not do so. This should be accepted as taking him out of consideration and put an end to the foolish talk about forcing him to run again.

President Roosevelt's final announcement that he would not be a candidate for another term caused a sharp rally in Wall street markets. The campaign for higher prices begun two weeks ago was based largely upon the belief that President Roosevelt would make this announcement.

In some quarters it was said that a positive pledge had been secured from him by J. P. Morgan at the time Mr. Morgan visited the White House. The Wall street candidate is understood to be Charles E. Hughes and the stock market is rallying around him.

The Democratic National Committee met at Washington, Thursday and decided to hold the Presidential convention in Denver, Colorado, on July 7, 1908.

The State Bar Examining Commission made its report to the Supreme Court Friday, showing that out of a class of 90, 83 passed the required examination, five failed, while one failed to appear for the test. One, Arthur Murphy, of Logan, became fatally ill during the examining days and died, having taken but one day of the examination. The commission, after a conference with the Court, decided that all the successful applicants will be expected to be present on Wednesday, December 18, and be sworn in before the full Court before they will be granted their certificates of practice.

The warfare of the United States government against the senders of obscene and scurrilous postal cards and letters through the mails was made quite evident in the proceedings of the court Friday morning, in Columbus, when stiff sentences were handed out to offenders in a number of cases.

The grand jury adjourning Friday morning, was in session four days, during which 110 witnesses were examined, 21 cases passed upon, 16 indictments returned, five cases being dropped. Thomas Hoffman, of Orbiston, Athens county, pleaded guilty to sending obscene postal cards through the mails, and he was given a fine of $25 and costs and one year in the Mansfield Reformatory.

Roy Jones, attendant at the Athens state hospital, also pleaded guilty to the same charge, and the court handed him a fine of $25 and costs.

Several indictments were not given out.

Fire gutted one of the principal business blocks of Shawnee, an early hour Friday morning. The estimated loss is over $50,000.

The fire originated in the I. O. O. F. building about 4 o'clock from an unknown cause. The principal losses are:

Anthony Sharshall, building and hardware stock, $12,000; $5000 insurance.
I. O. O. F. building and equipment, $8000; insurance $2000.
Nickelodium, $500.
Shawnee Journal, $3000.
John Condin, building, $3000.
Edward Faught, saloon and residence, $4000.

A number of adjoining buildings and buildings on the opposite side of the street were also badly damaged by fire and water. It is believed that aggregate losses will exceed $50,000.

When told of the date of the Democratic national convention Mr. W. J. Bryan expressed satisfaction and said he believed the committee was wise in selecting a date following the Republican convention. He said that while he had taken no part in the canvass for the convention city, he was sure the Democrats would find Denver a delightful place to meet on the date decided upon.
